Foreword

The Senior Class is proud to present the 1961 TALISMAN. In it we offer to you a picture of Rutland High School as seen through the eye of the camera.

Here the photographer has captured faculty and students following their scholastic routine and engaging in the many activities which round out the curriculum of a typical American high school. Teachers lecturing in a classroom or relaxing over a cup of coffee at the end of a busy day; students engrossed in a laboratory experiment or exuberantly leading cheers for the team — both sides of school life are presented here, we hope, as vividly and interestingly as we have experienced them.

Above all, we hope that in the pages of our book you will catch something of the spirit of R.H.S. and its friendly atmosphere, where teachers are never too busy to help the student eager for knowledge. We trust that you will enjoy reading the TALISMAN as much as we have enjoyed preparing it.

Dedicated to Mrs. Katherine C. Hinchey

We, the members of the class of 1961, are proud to dedicate the Talisman to Mrs. Katherine C. Hinchey. As a teacher she has given us understanding and appreciation of our language and literature, and as a guidance counselor she has helped us and countless students plan for the future. The yearbook which we dedicate to her could not exist without her patience and invaluable assistance as faculty adviser. We seniors know that we speak for all the students when we express our sincere affection and thanks to Mrs. Hinchey.

President's Message

The chief goal of most young people today is to graduate from high school, for the high school diploma is a necessity for entrance into most worthwhile and respected vocations. In fact, the demands of the mid-twentieth century make more advanced education desirable and, in the case of the professions, necessary. That so many of our class are planning further education must be gratifying to the citizens of Rutland and to our school administration and faculty, who have provided in our four years at Rutland High School the stepping-stone to the future.

These have been years of adjustment, discouragement, anticipation, and now, triumph. Here we have been introduced to the realistic pressures of life. Besides book knowledge, we have gained, I hope, some capacity for independent thought and action, weaning ourselves from others' guidance to self-responsibility.

As graduation day approaches, the class of 1961 will probably look back on these high school years with nostalgic yearning for the gaiety, the companionship, and the security which they afforded. While indulging in such memories, however, we must also look ahead, resolved that we will make all who have had a part in our preparation for life indeed proud of us.

Classes

Fight, team, FIGHT!

English

Miss Flynn gives directions for an American literature test.

Experience in oral and written expression, practice in the mechanics of writing, and a study of many literary forms give the student of English the opportunity to acquire not only technical skill in his own language but a cultural background of knowledge in literature of the past and present.

Mrs. Merusi lectures on Julius Caesar.

Dr. Stafford discusses the modern short story.

Languages

Mr. Robillard explains a difficult idiom to French II students.

With modern methods of travel and communication bringing the peoples of the world closer together, a knowledge of other languages and cultures is indispensable to the educated person. A course in Spanish will be offered next year in addition to the French and Latin already a part of the curriculum. The new language laboratory used for the first time this past year is one of the most modern and complete in New England.

Miss Buttles helps a Latin II class with a translation.

A French III class is tested on irregular verbs.

Science and Mathematics

Mr. Martin explains a physics problem.

In a technological society the need for a sound training in mathematics is evident. Such training is afforded the R.H.S. student in a number of courses at both the college preparatory and the vocational level.

A shop math student gets help on a problem from Mr. Manchester.

Mr. Keefe conducts biology lecture.

Mr. Boyce explains a puzzling Algebra III problem.

Science offers many interesting careers. In his high school science courses a student often finds the inspiration to choose one of these careers either in research or industry. R.H.S. affords the student courses in biology, physics, chemistry, and physical science.

Seniors observe closely a chemistry experiment.

Julie Mangan and Rick Morton keep watch to see what happens in their experiment.

Mr. Short lectures to a U.S. History class.

Social science courses offered at Rutland High School include U.S. History, which is required for all students, sociology, economics, and world history. Next year a new course for seniors, problems in democracy, will be offered to make students better informed about the important national and international issues that are of such vital importance to all of us.

Miss Moran explains a point in economics.

Students exchange opinions in Mr. Pielock's history class.

Social Science

The typing room is a busy place.

Business Education

With an eye to a profitable job in the future, young business students at R.H.S. graduate with adequate secretarial, bookkeeping, and clerical programs of study behind them. College preparatory students are offered the opportunity of taking personal typing.

A salesmanship student breaks down a "customer's" resistance.

Mrs. Bartlett gives dictation to future secretaries.

Trade and Industry

Mr. Manchester's drafting class is busily at work.

Boys study a piece of electronic equipment.

Under the direction of Henry L. Doll, Director of Trade and Industrial Education, such courses as electronics, metal working, auto mechanics, drafting, and wood working are offered in the shops at Rutland High School.

Mr. Doll and class observe a wood working project.

Mr. Hebert supervises a corner of the machine shop.

Metal working occupies a group of senior boys.

Mr. Mainville demonstrates a piece of auto shop equipment.

Homemaking

Mrs. Sloan explains a point to a class in home furnishing.

Besides learning the fundamentals of art such as color coordination, perspective, and balance, students under Miss Doane's instruction learn to express their own ideas through many different media.

Physical Education

A gym class lines up in readiness for an active session.

Food preparation, nutrition, clothing construction, child care, home nursing, budgeting, and home decoration are a few of the related subjects taught by Mrs. Sloan in home making.

Art

Art class members exhibit a variety of skills.

Sophomores and juniors are required to take physical education. Under the able instruction of Mrs. Bartenstein and Mr. Rippon, they are taught the importance of exercise as a key to good health.

A Case of Springtime

Presented by the Class of 1961

A light, thoroughly amusing comedy of youth, deftly acted by a sizable cast of seniors, delighted capacity audiences on the evenings of November 17 and 18. The play, directed by Mrs. Mildred Crowley, assisted by Francis L. Robillard and Francis Delorm, featured Robert Crosby and Lauren Van Buskirk in the leading roles. Supporting parts were ably taken by Francis Delorm, Marsha

Fletcher, Daniel Lawry, Carol Keyes, Jean Conner, Charles Fenton, Linda Swanson, Burgess Smith, Daniel Morgan, and Hazel Brown. Nancy Grant, Diane Casella, and Martha Rankin captivated the audience with their hilarious portrayals of three P.T.A. ladies. The production was one of the most financially successful ever presented at Rutland High School.

Fletcher, L. Van Buskirk, J. Conner, C. Keyes; THIRD ROW: N. Grant, B. Smith, H. Brown, R. Crosby, M. Rankin, D. Casella.

Then do your magic, Bob!

Dicky, what mighty muscles you have!

Have a good time at the ball, dear.

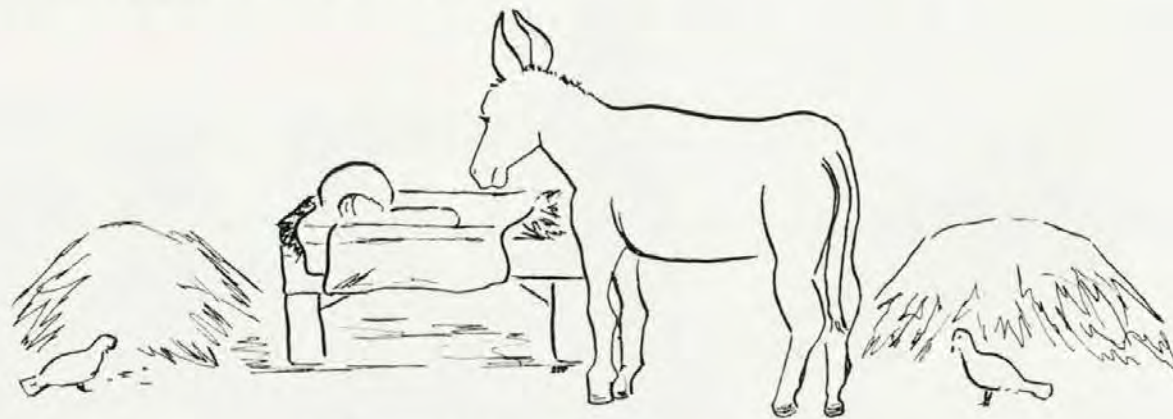

Young man, call your mother!

A Family Affair

As its annual gift to the community, Rutland High School this year chose to present an impressive pageant in four scenes entitled A Family Affair. As a family trimmed the tree, the grandmother read the legend of a donkey, "The Small One," which stood in the holiest stable of all time. Then followed a modern version of "The Night Before Christmas," done in pantomime. "The Christmas Story," the age-old re-enactment of the manger scene, provided a beautiful climax to one of the finest Christmas programs ever presented at Rutland High School.

"You cannot leave the city." Richard Dexter as a Roman guard.

With the familiar cry of "Inspection," groups of Student Council members converged on the homerooms to conduct the weekly inspection that is part of the council program. Daily candy sales and selection of the Student of the Week also occupied the members. An innovation this year was a suggestion box set up in the main corridor to bring matters requiring attention to the notice of the council.

National Honor Society

At one of the most impressive induction ceremonies ever held at R.H.S. 17 new members were received into the National Honor Society on March 2. That evening they were guests of honor at a banquet prepared and served by the Future Homemakers of America under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Sloan.

During the winter months members took turns selling candy at basketball games to defray expenses.

Walter Carrara was president of the group.

Boys' and Girls' State

In these times of complex political issues, no lesson is of more importance for young people than that of intelligent citizenship.

An insight into the workings of government at the state level was afforded ten boys and four girls from last year's junior class, who attended

Boys' and Girls' State at Norwich University and Vermont college respectively.

Organizing political parties, campaigning for office, and participating in a mock session of the legislature were valuable lessons in good government for these future citizens.

SEATED: Lauren Van Buskirk, Nancy Grant. STANDING: Diane Casella, Frances Thurber.

Books stacked on corridor radiator are mute evidence that their owners are on monitor duty.

The main function of the Monitor Squad is to keep student traffic between classes moving smoothly. Members are chosen at the end of their junior year for dependability and evidence of desire to render service to the school.

Activities sponsored by the monitors during the year were a semi-formal dance at Christmas and sales of fudge and school banners to augment their treasury.

The hustle and bustle of a newspaper office as another issue goes to press is reproduced daily in Room 217 as Red and White staffers put together another informative and entertaining copy of the school paper.

Its twenty issues throughout the year make their appearance in the home room on Friday afternoons giving subscribers the latest information on "What's doing" at R.H.S.

A special inaugural issue this year commemorated the band trip to Washington.

Mr. Alexander, director, in an informal moment in his busy schedule.

As in previous years, one of the most delightful parts of the annual Christmas pageant was the musical background provided by the Rutland High School Chorus.

Smaller groups of chorus members have also performed at other school functions, such as the induction assembly of the National Honor Society and Baccalaureate.

The most memorable day in Rutland High School Band history was January 20 when 100 maroon-clad musicians marched proudly by the reviewing stand, honoring the newly inaugurated president.

Other events of a banner year were the state and city-wide music festivals in which selected members participated.

The band also assisted in playing host to participants in the New England Music Festival, which was held here on April 6, 7, and 8.

A new musical organization, The Ten Tones, a dance orchestra under the direction of Peter Schill, was formed early in the fall of 1960. This group, with its smooth harmony, has enlivened such affairs as school dances, banquets, meetings, and gatherings at nearby ski resorts. Notable appearances during the past winter were the annual city Brotherhood banquet and the Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The Ten Tones score a hit at Chamber of Commerce dinner.

A branch of Key Club International, the R.H.S. Key Club has for its purpose school and community service. Its membership is limited to boys in the upper half of their class. Because the members participate in a variety of worthwhile projects, the Club affords a boy an opportunity to acquire or develop responsibility and Leadership. This year the Key Club has presented two worthwhile assemblies: a pre-election program last fall to acquaint the students with the platforms of the candidates for the Presidency and the issues of the campaign; and a patriotic program commemorating the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln.

A series of record hops during the year have enlivened the social side of school life and enlarged the club treasury. Meetings were held weekly on Thursday evenings. David Hinsman was president and Mr. Raymond Mainville, faculty adviser during the past year.

The Science Club is an extracurricular organization for students interested in increasing their scientific knowledge beyond the limits of the classroom. These future scientists get together on Friday afternoons to view a project set up by Mr. John Martin, faculty adviser, or to devise projects of their own. Such projects inspire the members to look more deeply into the principles involved and to try to work out methods to explain the theory of the project.

A new addition to the list of extracurricular activities this year, The Radio Club was organized to make the facilities of the radio laboratory available to students not taking the electronics course and also to give electronics students more time to work with radio equipment. The members met every Tuesday afternoon with Mr. Richard Cizna, adviser, to discuss radio principles and to work on useful projects.

International Relations Club

One of the busiest organizations in the school, the International Relations Club has carried out a full program of activities this year.

Included on its agenda were a dance, "Haphazard Hop," an assembly Honoring the United Nations, sponsorship of the U.N. contest examination, a student-written variety show, a get-out-the-vote campaign during the election last fall, and talks by members before several local organizations on the United Negro College Fund.

Before the close of the year I.R.C. members plan trips to Burlington and Poultney for joint meetings with similar clubs.

Dramatics, always a popular activity, flourished during the 1960-61 school year with two one-act plays presented at special assemblies for the student body.

Scene I from the first act of Saint Joan by George Bernard Shaw, produced in January, featured Pamela Maccabee, George Ambrose, Fred Thurber, and Francis Delorm in difficult and highly dramatic roles.

A farce U.S. Revolt, to be presented in April, is yet to be cast.

Mimes also acted as host to the district high school one-act play contest held at Rutland High School in March. Several Mimes members had roles in the Rutland entry, The Storm, directed by Dr. Douglas Stafford of the English Department.

These take the form of games, short plays, film strips, cross word puzzles, and French songs.

Officers of the club are Présidente, Patricia Cizmadia; Vice-présidente, Carol Crowley; Secrétaire, Katherine Sinos; Trésorière, Pamela Maccabee. Mrs. Helen Mangan is the club adviser.

Coach Flaitz keeps watchful eye on course of game.

The charges of Coach Lloyd "Dido" Flaitz ended the 1960 season in a three-way tie for the state title with an outstanding record marred by only one loss which came at the hands of cross-town rival, M.S.J. in the annual Veterans' Day contest. The season opened with a revenge win over Rice Memorial High School which had kept the Raiders from the state title in 1959. The thriller of the season came when the Redmen took a 14-13 decision over Brattleboro on a Kent-to-Anderson aerial to tie the game as time ran out with the ball still in the air. Seely kicked for the extra point to give the Raiders the win.

Rick Seeley, Dean Kent, and Carl Anderson were named to positions on the All-State first team while Pete Stickney placed on the second squad.

The 1960-61 team, plagued by the loss of two starters, finally succeeded in posting a respectable 7-7 record in Southern Vermont League competition and came within a hairbreadth of landing a position in the SVL tournament. After losing four pre-season contests and their first league game, they went on to win more than half their contests in the remainder of the season.

The sore spot was Rutland's two losses to their city rival, Mt. St. Joseph. Although by mid-season the Raiders were playing good ball, they lost these two contests by nine and two-point margins respectively.

The mainstays of the Raiders all season were Charlie Heath, Carl Anderson, Steve Freeman, Norm Gilman and Chuck Shortle, all seniors, Walt Malmgren, a junior, and Glen Fitzgerald, a sophomore. Heath, high scorer on the team, posted 215 points in league competition and ranked sixth in the state, Fitzgerald, second in scoring, was the first sophomore in several years to score over 100 points in a season.

Anderson and Malmgren gave height to a relatively short squad and were instrumental in many of the victories. The loss of Freeman and Shortle in mid-season greatly handicapped the team. Freeman shone in rebounding and foul shooting, while Shortle was chief playmaker. Gilman did an admirable job of filling this crucial position.

Compiling a record of 7 victories and 3 losses in a schedule which matched them against such schools as West Rutland, Fair Haven, Brandon, Ludlow, and Middlebury, the Girls' Varsity completed a very successful season.

In an entertaining climax to the season the girls competed against a team of boys selected from the intramural league. The boys, playing girls' rules, won by a very narrow margin.

A sizable squad of enthusiastic girl skiers worked out this past season under the tutelage of Mrs. Keen Chaffee. They attended regular practices and competed in several races with other schools. They also assisted the Boys' Ski Team by tending gates.

Since the majority of the team are underclassmen, R.H.S. girl skiers should have a successful season next year.

IN APPRECIATION

In any important enterprise whose success involves the work of a large number of persons, the efforts of some who have contributed the most are often overlooked. The publication of a year book is just such an enterprise, and a group of staff members whose work equals, if it does not exceed, in importance that of any other staff section is the business board. These unsung heroes each year with zest and efficiency go about the unglamorous and often thankless task of raising the money — a formidable sum — that makes possible the annual Talisman. To these co-workers for a job well done the editorial staff says, "Congratulations!"

The editors would like also to thank the following persons or groups who have helped in many ways:

Mrs. Katherine Hinchey, the editorial adviser
Mrs. Lewis McKerley, adviser to the business board
Miss Lucy Doane, consultant to the art staff
Mr. John Martin, for candid photography
Mr. Norman Porter, official photographer for the 1961 Talisman
Mr. Aldo Merusi, for special events photography
The entire staff, for cooperation and diligent effort
The patrons, for their generous response
The advertisers, for wholehearted financial support
